

Human Rights and Privacy Law Committee – Terms of Reference

The Human Rights and Privacy Law Committee is a law reform committee established by the New Zealand Law Society Board.

- 1. Monitor and comment on proposals for legislative, regulatory, or other change in the area of human rights and privacy law.
- 2. Advocate for legislative and operational changes which would better protect and promote human rights and privacy.
- 3. Work collaboratively with other law reform committees where there are areas of mutual interest and expertise.
- 4. Provide advice to the President and Board of the New Zealand Law Society on issues relating to human rights and privacy law.
- 5. Provide advice to the Board of the New Zealand Law Society on potential public interest interventions which raise human rights and privacy issues, and contribute to intervenor submissions.
- 6. Alongside the in-house Law Reform & Advocacy Team, maintain good working relationships with key stakeholders. This may include attending meetings with Government departments, participating on working groups, and working with other representative organisations.
- 7. Engage with human rights and privacy lawyers across Aotearoa/the various regions to better understand issues which impact access to justice, and issues affecting human rights and privacy lawyers.